INSPECTED JAIL AND ALMS HOUSE

Grand Jury Tells of Dangerous Bridges on the Baltimore Pike. Says Jail and Alms House are Credit to their Keepers.

While complaints are being registered by officials concerning the conditions of the jails and alms houses in various parts of the State, Adams County's institutions are found to be in the very best of shape and a credit to the management. The November Court grand jury visited both the jail and the alms house and presented a flattering report on Tuesday. The report in full was as follows:

To the Honorable Court:
The Grand Jury of their own personal knowledge present the following bridges on the Baltimore Pike as being unsafe and dangerous: Rock Creek, White Run, Two Taverns, near Yoost's Store, at Mud College school house, Ring Creek and two near the Maryland line, and also a dangerous fording at the Cross Run on the Bonneauville Road where a bridge is needed.

And that we visited the Jail and Alms House in all their departments and find everything in excellent condition, being well kept, clean and healthful, being a credit to the sheriff, steward and keepers, with the exception of the bath tubs in the old men's and old women's departments at the Alms House. We deem it necessary that new ones be placed in their stead.

C. B. Dougherty, Foreman.
At Tuesday's session of Court the following cases were not pressed, the costs in each instance to be paid by the county, Henry Goff, charged with assault and battery; Walter A. Small, furnishing liquor to minors; E. Toddes, selling adulterated food.

Rev. Frederick C. J. Sternat was naturalized as an American citizen. Rev. Mr. Sternat, who is now pastor of the Lutheran churches at Abbottstown and East Berlin, was brought to this country from Austria by his parents when he was less than two years of age. His father was never naturalized and as a result it was necessary for him to go through the form of becoming a regular American citizen.

A number of divorce cases came before the Court at this November session.

In the case of Alfred A. Kemper vs. Myrtle B. Kemper a subpoena was awarded returnable January 26, 1914.

J. Donald Swope Esq. was appointed commissioner to take testimony in the case of Annie R. Dixon vs. W. R. Dixon.

SHOOT MANY DEER ON THE MOUNTAIN

Deer Hunting Clubs and Individuals Kill Many Fine Bucks during the Opening Days of the Season. Cashtown Gets Two.

Many deer are falling before the prowess of the hunters on South Mountain.

Samuel Shultz and John Lower, of the Cashtown Deer Camp shot a two prong, 150 pound buck on Tuesday.

A. W. Cole, also of the Cashtown Club this morning shot a large four prong buck.

James C. Cole, of the Arendtsville Camp shot a 120 pound, two prong buck Monday morning at 7 o'clock. One shot did the work.

John H. Bowers, of Waynesboro, shot a 175-pound spike buck on Tuesday. He is with the Monterey Club, which is camped near Newmans on the Chambersburg & Gettysburg turnpike.

Harvey Smith, Goods Siding, brought down his deer on Tuesday, near the Pearl of the Park, Mont Alto. It was a 2-prong buck. Mr. Smith was hunting by himself.

Charles E. Bonner, 18-year old son of the well-known fruit grower, Charles O. Bonner, shot a spike buck near Tarburner spring about 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. It weighed 89 pounds. An older brother saw a deer Monday, while hunting, and sent a load of shot after it but did not get it. The Sport club, to which a number of Waynesboro men belong, saw nine does and two bucks on the forge bottom, near Glen Furney, Tuesday. Members shot at the bucks but did not get them.

John Talhelm, Shady Grove, who, with several other hunters from Shady Grove are in camp near Caledonia, brought down a buck on Green Ridge. Elmer McLaughlin and Sherman Carr, of Waynesboro, came near getting a buck Monday on Green Ridge above Roadside. They saw the buck at quite a distance and shot several times at it but did not bring it down. After chasing the animal through the forest, they lost trace of it and returned home empty-handed. A wounded deer ran down the Metzger Gap road and turned off toward Roadside and it is believed this is the buck Messrs. McLaughlin and Carr hit.

Frank Koon, Greencastle, killed a buck near Graffenburg. He shot it on Big Graffenburg hill, about a mile northeast of the inn. It weighed 110 pounds, and had four prongs. It was killed shortly after 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Sunday was a big night at the Cashtown deer camp. The guests of honor were Eddie and Ira Plank and Harry Davis and the main trend of talk around the camp fire in the evening was base ball. For several hours the three professionals kept their audience at tense attention by their stories of "How we Won the Pennant" and many other thrilling base ball stories. Sunday was the last day for Harry Davis for Gettysburg for some time as he returned to Philadelphia on Monday.

Over 20,000 hunters are out after deer in Pennsylvania this week. This is the estimate of Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, secretary of the State Game Commission, who is probably the best posted man on hunting in the state and who keeps in close touch with every county through game wardens and men interested in the protection and propagation of game. This number is larger than known last year and the doctor thinks that he may be too low.

"From what I can learn, there are 6,000 people hunting deer on state forest preserves who have established camps on the public lands through permits from the forestry authorities and easily 6,000 are hunting on state lands who are camping elsewhere," said the commissioner.

"This army of hunters is, maybe, a little over half of the others who are hunting on lands not embraced in the state preserves. Maybe it is half of the number of hunters. Thanks to the operation of law, the number of deer have increased because people can no longer go out and kill does and fawns indiscriminately. They can only kill bucks with visible horns. Last year there were about 800 bucks killed in Pennsylvania and there should be a good kill this year, as deer have been numerous," continued the doctor.

"Last year there were about 70 does killed and I'm sorry to say that more were killed in the South Mountain region—Adams, Cumberland and Franklin counties—than in any other part of the state. We are keeping a watch on the killing of does this year and mean to break it up if we can."

APPROVES CLOSE OF HENRY CASES

Editorial in Philadelphia Paper Says it was the Proper Ending to an Unfortunate Occurrence. Anniversary not Marred.

The Philadelphia Press makes this editorial comment over the disposition of the Henry cases:

The highly successful celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg was marred by a single untoward episode, the stabbing of nine persons by William B. Henry, formerly of Virginia. Just why he was moved to run amuck on this occasion did not appear at the time, but all are now willing to regard it as a temporary aberration of mind. None of the injuries had serious results, Henry is repentant and all is forgiven.

Henry had many powerful friends from the South to intercede for him and the general sentiment which controlled the situation was a desire that nothing further should occur to mar the harmony and good understanding of that great anniversary. It celebrated a battle, but it also cemented national ties and national feeling and brought together representatives of North and South in friendly rivalry.

It was a pity that the serenity of that occasion was in any degree disturbed, but it is wise and proper to make little of it, so that only that which was beautiful, patriotic and inspiring in that great reunion shall long remain in memory.

CARLISLE LAWYER HAS DISAPPEARED

Chester C. Bashore Last Heard from in Montana. Mother-in-Law's Name Said to have been Forged on Note.

A petition was filed in Cumberland County Court by E. M. Biddle, Jr., attorney for Mrs. M. J. Bosler, wealthy mother-in-law of Chester C. Bashore, asking that a judgment entered against Mrs. Bosler for a note for $1,100 by the First National Bank of Newville, be opened on the ground that the name of Mrs. Bosler on the note is a forgery. The note has on it the names of Mrs. M. J. Bosler and Chester C. Bashore. It is dated September 29, and was issued for thirty days.

Chester C. Bashore is a prominent lawyer of Carlisle, and he left there on Monday, October 6, after telling his wife, who was Miss Fleda Bosler, that he was going to New York to look for a new position. Only once since he left has any word come from him and that was on a post card mailed from a railroad station in Montana, close to the Canadian border. It is said that the card intimated in substance that he would be away for some time.

For some weeks there have been many stories about Bashore's absence. None of the rumors ever got into the newspapers though the judgment was entered against the note some weeks ago. In the petition filed reference to the alleged forgery is made.

A few days before Bashore left his wife made the discovery that her name had been forged in 1907 to a note calling for $1,200. It was found that this note was kept under cover during that time, the interest charges being met annually and the note being renewed. It was not until a few days before Bashore left that his wife knew of the note's existence.

Some time ago Bashore purchased the Valley Times, a newspaper published at Newville, with money furnished by the wife and only recently he sold it for $4,500.

CARLISLE LAWYER HAS DISAPPEARED

Chester C. Bashore Last Heard from in Montana. Mother-in-Law's Name Said to have been Forged on Note.

A petition was filed in Cumberland County Court by E. M. Biddle, Jr., attorney for Mrs. M. J. Bosler, wealthy mother-in-law of Chester C. Bashore, asking that a judgment entered against Mrs. Bosler for a note for $1,100 by the First National Bank of Newville, be opened on the ground that the name of Mrs. Bosler on the note is a forgery. The note has on it the names of Mrs. M. J. Bosler and Chester C. Bashore. It is dated September 29, and was issued for thirty days.

Chester C. Bashore is a prominent lawyer of Carlisle, and he left there on Monday, October 6, after telling his wife, who was Miss Fleeda Bosler, that he was going to New York to look for a new position. Only once since he left has any word come from him and that was on a post card mailed from a railroad station in Montana, close to the Canadian border. It is said that the card intimated in substance that he would be away for some time.

For some weeks there have been many stories about Bashore's absence. None of the rumors ever got into the newspapers though the judgment was entered against the note some weeks ago. In the petition filed reference to the alleged forgery is made.

A few days before Bashore left his wife made the discovery that her name had been forged in 1907 to a note calling for $1,200. It was found that this note was kept under cover during that time, the interest charges being met annually and the note being renewed. It was not until a few days before Bashore left that his wife knew of the note's existence.

Some time ago Bashore purchased the Valley Times, a newspaper published at Newville, with money furnished by the wife and only recently he sold it for $4,500.

New Baseball Deal?

In Philadelphia was circulated a story that Connie Mack of the Athletics had traded Outfielder James Walsh to the New York Americans as part of a deal by which Frank Chance sent Claude Derrick to the Baltimore club, partly owned by Mack, last year. When President Farrell of the New York Americans was asked about the supposed deal he declared that, while he hadn't actually signed papers that would make Walsh his property, something might come of it later on.

"The report is a trifle premature," said Farrell, "and I only wish that I could confirm it. It is true that last summer when Chance let Derrick go to the Baltimore club he asked Mack to let him have an outfielder, one of six, then wearing Athletic uniforms. Mack at first couldn't see it, but as he needed Derrick in Baltimore he finally named three players from whom Chance could make a selection, and Walsh was among them."

Wrestler Mahmout Killed by Bandits. Yussif Mahmout, a Bulgarian wrestler, who met a number of American mat men, including Frank Gotch, by whom he was defeated, was killed by a band of Bulgarian bandits in the mountains near Silistria, his home, according to a story told by two Turkish wrestlers who arrived in Chicago recently.

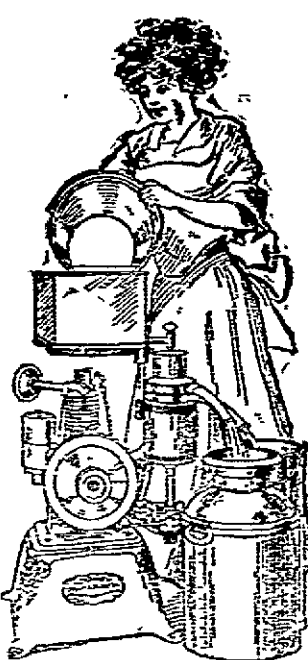

Mahmout was a petty officer in the Bulgarian army during the late war and, according to their story, went to the town to draw some money to pay off the men in his command. Sixteen bandits, learning the purpose of his trip, waylaid him on his return, but because Mahmout had procured only orders instead of gold coin they killed him.

In the Federal League.

The Federal leaguers claim that Tommy Leach, Roger Bresnahan, George Stovall and Wilbert Robinson will manage teams in the outlaw circuit. Bresnahan has a three years' contract with the Cubs at $10,000 a year. Robinson couldn't be hired to leave his old pal, John McGraw, and the Giants. Leach may not remain with Evers because of advancing years, while Stovall's threatened defection will not cause an earthquake in St. Louis.

Not only from the standpoint of the welfare of the boy, but as well from the standpoint of the welfare of the farm and the boy's subsequent interest in it, it is a mighty shortsighted policy to scribble his schooling for the benefit of the few dollars that may be got out of his labor as a result. It is all too little schooling the average boy gets at best, and the least his father can do is to see that he is in school every day that it is possible for him to be so long as the boy is interested in his work and making the most of his time.

There is little choice from the standpoint of humanity between the man who keeps a horse until it becomes nearly useless and then sells it to some hard hearted brute who will while the last breath of life out of it in an effort to get it to do a few dollars' worth more work, and the latter, who is directly responsible for the poor animal's death. When a horse arrives at the point where to work it further is sheer cruelty the humane man will mercifully shoot it, if he cannot afford to provide shelter and food for it until it dies.

Be Pretty! Turn Gray Hair Dark

Try Grandmother's old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

ATTRACTIVE HAIR

Always Fascinates—Parisian Sage Makes Hair That is Dull, Faded or Thin, Abundant and Gloriously Radiant.

Every girl and woman, too, wants to be beautiful and attractive—it's her birthright—but unsightly, or thin and characterless hair destroys half the beauty of the most attractive face.

If your hair is not fascinating, is thinning out, full of dandruff, dry or if the scalp itches and burns, begin at once the use of Parisian Sage. It will double the beauty of the hair, cool and invigorate the scalp and the first application removes the dandruff. It is the hair tonic par excellence, containing the proper elements to supply hair needs and make the hair soft, wavy, lustrous and abundant.

Parisian Sage as sold by People's Drug Store in 50 cent bottles is pleasant and refreshing, daintily perfumed—neither greasy or sticky.

Stop Catarrh

Unless Properly Treated With Hyomei This Disease May Become Serious.

If you have catarrh, indicated by sniffling, stopped up head, droppings in the throat and morning choking, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane which affords an ideal condition for the growth of disease germs.

Do not allow these dangerous germs to begin the destruction of your health.

The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by breathing Hyomei. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not upset the stomach, but is breathed in through the Hyomei inhaler, directly following and surely destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled—the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs are quickly healed and vitalized.

Money refunded by People's Drug Store to anyone whom Hyomei fails to benefit. A complete outfit costs but $1.00.

DELICATE CHILD

Made Strong and Healthy by Vinol.

Growing children play hard and work hard at school, which with rapid growth uses up an enormous amount of energy and vitality that must be replaced.

When a child is tired all the time, no appetite, weak, delicate and sickly we guarantee Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, will build them up, create a hearty appetite, sound flesh and muscle tissue, pure, healthy blood, and make them strong.

Mrs. L. L. Bertrand, New Iberia, La., says: "My little one was weak and run-down in health, and was continually taking cold. Different medicines recommended I found it a wonderful help to my child. It broke up the cold, and quickly restored health and strength. Vinol is a most excellent tonic for children."

If Vinol fails to do just what we say, we will give back your money. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa. P. S. For any skin trouble try our Sasso Salve. We guarantee it.

PRESIDENT HOPES TO OVERTHURTE

He Plans to Halt Loans and "Starve" Dictator Out.

HANDS OFF POLICY PREVAILS

Mr. Wilson Believes Dictator's Regime Will Collapse If Foreign Aid Is Withheld.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Indications are that the American policy toward Mexico, which it is hoped the nations of the world generally will follow, still is "hands off."

The general interpretation of the situation is that the United States, by giving foreign powers detailed information of its own determination to refuse to recognize the acts of the new Mexican congress, has indicated a desire that the powers generally refrain from financial dealings with the Huerta government.

So far as can be learned, there has been no specific request for support by the powers, but there has been a plain intimation that the Washington government believes the collapse of the Huerta regime inevitable, if foreign aid be withheld.

With the intention to regard as illegal any loans or connections the new congress may undertake, there has been distinct intimation that a policy of acquiescence by foreign governments will be gratifying to Washington. Without financial aid and with the machinery of government pronounced illegal, officials expect to see a state of affairs that may force President Huerta to eliminate himself and show the way to a solution of the problem from the American viewpoint.

The cabinet met again with all the members present except Secretary Wilson. The Mexican topic was foremost. The raising of the embargo on arms, which has been urged upon the president and practically all the secretaries, was discussed at length.

Already the "financial starvation" plan is meeting with encouragement. France, it is asserted, has shown a favorable disposition by notifying French bankers that the Paris government will be displeased if money is furnished to the Huerta administration.

The attitude of the other great powers has not been disclosed, but it is said that the inquiries of the United States have resulted in bringing from Great Britain a denial of the report that Huerta has succeeded in obtaining from British capitalists enough money to run the Mexican government for a month.

Within the last few days President Wilson has been inclining toward lifting the embargo, and the gossip is that Bryan is seeking to show that this method of disciplining Huerta, which has been described in some quarters as barbarous, can be avoided by the negative course of preventing him from obtaining any money abroad.

Thus apparently the question of lifting the embargo on arms and ammunition for the rebels will be held in abeyance and will not be decided affirmatively unless the financial "starvation" plan fails. Then the embargo may be lifted, and if in turn it fails in the desired result, or if serious complications arise armed intervention will be the next and final step.

President Wilson will not abandon military preparations, and will be prepared for intervention at any time, though he hopes and believes that extreme policy can be avoided.

Between now and Nov. 20, the day set for the meeting of the new Mexican congress President Wilson, it was said by an adviser, will take no decided action unless forced to do so by unexpected events in Mexico.

$10,000 IS STOLEN FROM MAIL SACK

Wife of Driver Says Husband Admitted Theft.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Theft of money and jewelry valued at $10,000 from a mail sack was disclosed by Colonel James Stuart, postoffice inspector, here.

The crime is alleged by Colonel Stuart to have been committed by Albert Tardy, a mail wagon driver.

Tardy collected five sacks containing registered packages at the South Water street, Masonic Temple and the Stock Exchange sub-stations of the Chicago postoffice.

Suspicion was aroused when the wagon, containing four of the sacks, was found abandoned at the Union station. These sacks contained $1000 in money and gems which had not been disturbed.

Tardy's wife was found with some difficulty, as Tardy had given his address at a number which proved to be a vacant lot. She said Tardy visited her for a few moments, told her that he had stolen $10,000 from a mail sack, and would write to her as soon as he had escaped "across the border." He gave her a small sum of money, she said, and left, saying that he would catch the midnight train.

Colonel Stuart said that Tardy had served a term in the Missouri penitentiary for highway robbery and another at Joliet for attempting to steal a truck load of trunks.

Tardy was employed by H. C. Steger, who has a contract with the post office department to provide all horses and wagons needed by the department in Chicago. He is under bond.

HANG MAN BY HIS POCKETS

Highwaymen Torture Their Victim In Unusual Manner.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 12.—Two masked highwaymen held up John Rasmus, thirty-eight years old, at Durvye, near here, and took all his money and valuables.

Because Rasmus attempted to run away after he was robbed the highwaymen tied his hands and feet securely. His empty pockets were then turned inside out and he was impaled by the pockets on the pickets of a fence.

For two hours he was left hanging. Finally his cries brought help. He was exhausted from his long exposure in the cold air.

ATTACKS WHIPPING POST

Montana Congressman Calls Delaware Punishment "Unconstitutional."

Washington, Nov. 12.—The bare back whipping of six Delaware convicts at New Castle on Nov. 8, brought a resolution from Congressman Evans of Montana, proposing that Attorney General McReynolds bring injunction proceedings against the state of Delaware to enforce the constitutional prohibition against "cruel and inhuman punishments."

Congressman Evans expected his resolution to save the same convict from being whipped again next Saturday, and to prevent such punishments elsewhere.

To Give Home For Y. M. C. A.

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 12.—In order that a Young Woman's Christian Association may be established here Mrs. Smith Grant is preparing to turn over her $50,000 estate, including the house in which she lives, for this purpose. Mrs. Grant, who is seventy-three years old, said that she could find a smaller house for herself.

Headless Body Washed Ashore.

Hampton Beach, N. H., Nov. 12.—The body of a young woman, with the head and hands missing, was washed ashore here. The medical referee said that death was due to drowning. The absence of the head and hands was due to the action of the water, he said, and there was no evidence of foul play.

CLEVELAND IN GRIP OF SNOW

Trains Stalled, Food Scarce and Dead Unburied.

SEVERAL FROZEN TO DEATH

Fire Loss Is $100,000 and It Is Feared Conflagration May Start — Schools Are Closed.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 12.—Cleveland is buried under twenty-one inches of snow, its streets are filled with a tangled mass of broken and twisted wires and thousands upon thousands of its inhabitants are in imminent danger of suffering from lack of food.

Three persons have been killed, ten are missing and are believed to have been frozen to death, and a great steamship is stranded on the beach, its captain and crew of twenty-two sailors waiting for the death that may come at any moment because of the mountainous seas rolling in from Lake Erie.

It is still snowing, and unless the storm, which has continued since last Sunday, soon abates, no one can tell what the ultimate toll in dollars and lives may be.

The loss is already estimated at $2,000,000, half of which will fall upon the telephone and telegraph companies. Normal conditions cannot be restored within a week, and if a thaw should come, followed by the inevitable flood, the whole lake country will suffer severely.

Conditions have been growing worse since Monday night, when half of the city was plunged into darkness, the lighting plant being blown down by the gale. At least one-half of the street car service is out of commission, and no less than 3000 trolley, telegraph and telephone poles within the city limits have been blown down.

So complete was the paralysis of transportation facilities it was deemed best to let the dead lie in the places where they had died, and no funerals will be held until the storm is over.

There has been no delivery of groceries, bread, milk or coal since Saturday, and the suffering in consequence cannot be definitely learned, but it is widespread. There is a sufficient supply of gas, and it is being used sparingly in places fitted for it, that as many persons as possible may be benefited.

One of the greatest fears is from fire. Already one fire has done $100,000 damage, and the difficulties encountered in subduing it were such as to cause the authorities the greatest apprehension should another fire break out. Every possible precaution is being taken by the exhausted firemen and policemen.

All the schools of the city are closed. The danger attendant upon the passing of children through the streets and the unusual conditions surrounding them in the school houses, many of which have been thrown open to the homeless, prompted the authorities to suspend classes until the blizzard has abated.

The food shortage, felt Monday afternoon, has become more pronounced and threatening. There is no milk to be had at any price, except it be obtained in the name of suffering babies, and other foodstuffs are rapidly going to a premium where it is possible to find them. Many families were caught with little more than the food supply required to carry them over Sunday, and as there have been no shipments received since Saturday, the supply is rapidly being exhausted.

DIG TRAINS OUT OF SNOW

Hundreds of Passengers Were Stalled and Many Suffered Severely.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 12.—Although western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia still are buried under a blanket of a foot or more of snow, conditions are rapidly improving.

Telephone and telegraph companies have made progress in restoring communication and railroads have dug out trains that had been buried for hours in the largest drifts known in the Pittsburgh section for a long period of years.

One train arrived in Pittsburgh from Cleveland, after having been on the way a little more than thirty hours. It was stalled in a drift for twenty-eight hours not far from Cleveland, and the passengers suffered severely from the cold and hunger.

Hundreds of passengers were on trains stalled or derailed. A farm house in Washington county had ninety-five passengers, one of them Senator A. B. Cummins, of Iowa, who had been visiting his father in Carmichael.

In Pittsburgh and environs there is much suffering in the tenement districts. The Salvation Army, Associated Charities and other charity organizations are working overtime supplying clothing, fuel and food.

More than twenty inches of snow has fallen at Grafton, W. Va., since Sunday night. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad is digging out one of the worst blockades it has known in a dozen years, and trains are from eight to twelve hours late.

DAMAGED MAPLES

Cut them Off Close to Ground in the Blue Ridge Section.

Vandals are again busy plying their trade in the Blue Ridge section north of Waynesboro, and on Sunday night cut down 500 maple trees on the Mentzer Gap road between Hopewell Mills and the Cross Roads. Trees which had been planted on both sides of the road by Roadmaster J. N. Sprengle, about a year ago, were thriving and promised to make a magnificent shaded avenue after a time. The trees were chopped off close to the ground. There is no clue to the fellows who are guilty.

NO SIGNALS FROM MARS.

Professor Lowell Says We Shall Know More About Planet Soon.

Professor Percival Lowell, the Boston astronomer, is not in accord with the statement of Lecoultrre, the Swiss scientist, that there is a series of luminous apparitions taking place on the planet Mars, like flashes of electric lights, all turned on at the same time, which causes him to believe the Martians are trying to signal us. Professor Lowell attributes these sudden changes on the surface of the planet to peculiar atmospheric changes.

"It is not time yet for the Martians to signal us," he says. "Wait a little. We shall know more about Mars and its inhabitants in the near future."

"I do not believe that the inhabitants of Mars are signaling to us. This is hardly the time for signalling. What is seen there may be the snow on the peaks, and with the alkali there existing the peculiar colors discernible by Lecoultrre may be traceable to this."

"However, do not be too confident about this signaling business. There is more in Mars than we can imagine, and as time goes on greater revelations will be made

A TRANSFORMED FARM.

Ten years ago Professor Cyril G. Hopkins, the soil chemist and expert of the Illinois Agricultural college, set about to find the poorest and most run down farm in twenty counties in the southern part of his state, where a majority of the farmers had been skinning their land for years. He paid $20 per acre for a 300-acre farm, dubbed "Poorland Farm," which was known for counties around as the poorest and most run down agricultural proposition in the state. Those who knew the farm laughed in their sleeves when Professor Hopkins bought it, while the owner thought he had slipped a good one over on the "head pencil" farmer. The first thing the new proprietor did was to make a chemical analysis of the soil from the different fields. He found it sadly deficient in phosphorus and more or less sour. He divided the farm into six fields of forty acres each and adopted a six-year rotation of corn, oats and cowpeas, wheat and three years of meadow and pasture in timothy and clover. The soil was plowed deeply and carefully and all available straw and manure returned to the land. The past season the poorest tract of the entire farm yielded 1,220 bushels of wheat, or an average of nearly thirty-five bushels per acre. The treatment which was given this and the other fields was one ton of ground rock phosphate per acre applied the two years when the tract was in corn, while during the years of 1904 and 1905 two tons of limestone were applied to each acre, while on the tract in question two tons more of limestone per acre were applied in 1912 just before the land was plowed for wheat. The cost of two tons of limestone was $2.25 delivered at the railroad station, the raw rock phosphate cost on the average $6.75 per ton, while the cost of hauling each ton of material to the farm was 50 cents. This made the average actual cost of phosphate and limestone $1.75 per acre. To determine even more definitely the effect of the application of the minerals to the land a three-acre strip along one side of the forty was given the same manure and rotation as the forty, but to one half of it no phosphate was applied and no limestone until the fall of 1912. One- and one-half acres with fern manure alone produced eleven and one-half bushels of wheat per acre. A similar tract that had received farm manure and one application of ground limestone yielded fifteen bushels per acre, while thirty-six acres of land that had been given the same manure as the smaller tracts and two applications of ground limestone and two applications of finely ground rock phosphate produced thirty-five and one-half bushels per acre. It is Professor Hopkins' judgment that all that is required to restore a run down farm is lime to sweeten it, rock phosphate to restore the supply of phosphorus exhausted, the growing of clover and alfalfa and the conservation of all straw and manure produced on the place. Owners of run down farms might wish profit make careful note of the methods used in the transformation of this farm.

A NEW EGG CASE.

An Oregon inventor has tackled the proposition of devising a method of packing eggs for shipment that will reduce breakage in transit. Sheets of molded pulp board are used for this purpose, each sheet having holes evenly spaced and of such a diameter as to fit snugly over an egg a short distance from the end. When packed each egg projects slightly through two adjacent sheets, the spacing of the holes being such that no two eggs are in contact. A case of eggs packed with handmade sheets of this description was loaded over the rear axle of an express wagon, hauled rapidly over a rough plank loading road and dumped on the station platform as a package of unbreakable merchandise would be. Only one egg out of the fifty dozen which the case contained was broken, and it is claimed that this was the result of an imperfection in the handmade sheet.

COUPLE ROBBED

As They Were to Make Payment on their Home.

The savings of two years of married life, the fruits of many privations and denials, which were to be used in paying for a little home, were taken away early yesterday morning says a Los Angeles exchange, by the ruthless hand of a thief, according to the report at the police headquarters. The victims were R. R. Hankins and his wife of 425 East Fourth street. The savings amounted to $1,500, mostly in gold. The couple attribute their loss to the woman's fear of banks.

The money was in a little box hidden in a bookcase. Often the husband had cautioned his wife to place the money in a bank, but she feared a failure. No one knew the money was there, she reasoned, not even her husband's parents, with whom they lived and it was far safer. And so each week she added a few pieces of gold to the hoard and the vision of the little home grew brighter.

Before they were married she was Maud Miller and Hankins was a car inspector on the Southern Pacific. He earned about $1,200 a year. When the girl consented to marry him, according to the story told by his parents, she made the condition that Hankins would give her a home of her own in two years, and that on the day of the wedding he should show a deed to the lot whereon the home was to stand.

So Hankins, who is thirty years old, went to work and scrimped and saved and at last bought a lot. Then Maud Miller came out from Minnesota and they were married. They rented two little rooms in the same house with the husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Hankins, and began to save.

Each week Hankins turned over to his bride his pay, and after taking out only what was absolutely necessary to provide for them, she would put the rest in a little japanned box which she hid.

From time to time the couple took out the box and counted the gold pieces. When they had more than $1,000 they started to build on their lot on East Third street. The house was to cost about $1,000 and they had saved enough to furnish it.

Tuesday night they counted the money again and the husband says he begged the wife once more to place the money in the bank. It meant much to them, for they had undergone many denials and privations to save it. But she would not agree, still fearing banks.

The little bookcase sits near a window. Each morning when the couple awoke Hankins looked at the bookcase to see that everything was safe. Yesterday morning he discovered that the window was open, the books were lying on the floor and the money gone.

The matter was reported at once to the police, but Detectives Beaumont and King, who were assigned to the case, have yet no clue to work upon. A reward of $300 was authorized last night by Hankins.

The building on the little home is stopped, and unless the money is recovered the house will be turned over to the builders.

Both Hankins and his wife declared that they had learned a dear lesson. They will now start to save again, but each week their savings will be recorded in a little bank book.

The Savings Department of the First National Bank of Gettysburg offers you the little bank book, 3 1/2 per cent. compound interest, the protection of $250,000 capital and surplus, and over fifty years of successful banking experience. Open that account to-day—tomorrow may be too late—advertisement.

RALPH PARLETTE TO LECTURE HERE

Humorist-Lecturer Will Give His Idea on Lecturing.

Ralph Parlette, editor of the Lyceum Magazine, humorist and widely known lecturer, has been engaged to lecture here this season. He is a genius—only a genius could write and talk as he does. He was asked his idea of lecturing and we give below what he wrote us.

Parlette's Idea of Lecturing.

I used to think a lecture was a lot of words. I used to think if I could only get the words put together right, get the right position on the stage, get control of my diaphragm and let the fingers follow the wrist, that would be a lecture. And I hunted for words and tried to build fine sentences. I studied the books and learned voice culture and gesturing. I learned how to make a climax, wet or dry. I learned how to use the tremolo step and how to split the window panes. And I made a monkey of myself.

It has taken fifteen years to begin to learn that a lecture is the overflow of a life. It is the man inside the clothes and the gestures. We need the gestures and the training, but they are the necktie. And I had a necktie and no man to hang it on!

Now I am trying to make my life luminous and big and warm and right, and something is happening. The world used to run away from me, but now it comes to see me. The world is hungry, and when my audience asked me for bread I gave it a gesture. And the audience went to sleep. Now I am trying to give my audience food, no matter if the wrapper isn't very artistic, and they come back and ask for more.

And it is a daily job to lecture. I work all the day on the typewriter, and run for trains, and grab for machine-made pie off the lunch counters, make long drives and stay out of bed all night, and when I get to my town in the evening it is heavenly rest just to get on the platform and spill out the gold I am digging out each day over the audience that some hard-working committee has been struggling for weeks to get out.

I love every audience. I go to it like it was my long-lost brother. I used to hate audiences—and they hated me. The audience is just my own mirror. I smile at the audience, and it always smiles back. There's that front row of wriggling kids down in there. I love them, and pretty soon they quit wriggling and listen to me. And there's the baby that breaks its heart and fusses up its mother as I comment to lecture. I love that baby, and somehow the wireless begins to work and pretty soon the baby is asleep and mother has forgotten it all.

Then I take a few moments and rest myself from the long day's work and travel, and bless me! just about the time I get started on my lecture, I look at my watch and I have talked too long already. So I don't give my lecture at all. I haven't given a lecture for a year. I just started to give one and the time was up; just like I used to sleep when a boy—went to bed and somebody stole the night, for the next minute it was morning and father was coming upstairs with a pitcher of water to make his last call.

But I go away from the hall all rested. I lived pretty near 300 dates last year. Polks warned me I was killing myself. I want to go on killing myself that way, for I got fatter and happier each month, resting nearly 200 times. It is great to rest in public and be paid money for it. I feel guilty every time I take money from a committee. I feel as though I ought to pay the committee for the privilege of resting before their audience.

I know my lecture stuff is good for the audience, because it is good for me. I first try it on myself. And the big thing I have learned in these years of trying to lecture is—Keep in touch with the Power-House! There is only one subject in this world—God and Man. There is a difference between a sermon and a lecture. The Lyceum platform is my pulpit. Roll it all down into Race Improvement.

I haven't done anything yet, but I see the way. Somebody slaps me on the back and says: "I heard you at the Teachers' Institute." "Stop!" I beg. "Don't throw it up to me! I am trying to forget it!" For I am not pleased with one lecture yet, but the big lecture I want to give is ahead. I'll give it when my life gets big.

Dog Adopts Rabbits.
Unwanted affection between animals of different species is evidenced near Gortin county, Tyrone, Ireland. A local farmer named Fleming, has a female fox terrier which was deprived of her two pups when they were four weeks old. Two weeks ago she was out hunting and came on a rabbit burrow in which were bunnies two or three days old. Three of these the dog carried carefully to her kennel, and since then she has been rearing them.

A SMART TRANSPARENT TUNIC BANDED WITH FUR

Transparencies of all sorts are modern, wired, fur edged tunics, blouses that are merely one width of chiffon over another and touches of lace on everything. With the return to favor of the panther and the founce, lace has come into its own again. Metal laces are especially fashionable. These are not entirely metal, but bits of the pattern are worked out in threads of gold and silver. Trimmings of mousseline and net on which odd designs in silver or gold threads are worked, etc. A bit of gold on a frock is very effective and very new.

In 7706 the tunic is of chiffon over a supple liberty satin. The edge is wired and banded with fox dyed to match. A fine wire also outlines the frill of lace at the throat, giving the slightly bouffant effect which marks so many of the season's evening gowns.

This model may be copied in size 38 with 6 1/2 yards of 36 inch material with 2 1/2 yards of contrasting material or lace.

An overblouse and an overskirt pointed on each side make 7958 distinctive. A figured silk in which there were several softly contrasting colors and a wide Roman sash add further to the gown's effectiveness.

Size 36 in this design may be made with 7 1/2 yards of 36 inch silk.

No. 7706—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 7958—sizes 34 to 42.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

PUBLIC SHOULD BACK SHOWS.

If it is true that the man who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before is a benefactor of the race we believe in placing a halo on the man who makes juicy chickens grow where none grew before and makes a cackler increase her output one hundred eggs a year. In a decade the poultry population flew from 250,024,000 to 255,880,000 and eggs increased in like ratio, and that certainly means eats for the public.

More poultry eats, cheaper poultry eats and better poultry eats for the poultry lovers of this country and a surplus to export. The American hen adds a billion dollars to our national resources annually.

High time for the public to doff its hat and swing hoop for the hen and the men and women back of the hen.

The pulpit has shown its appreciation from the beginning and will continue to do so with avidity to the end of the apostolic succession, but the press is not all awake to the vast extent and importance of the great poultry industry, and the states are not a lot of monster boosters. Millions of dollars are invested in it, and millions of men and women are engaged in this advanced poultry culture that has made American poultry the finest in the world and our poultry crop the wonder of the nations. Millions of these fenders from farm, town and city will soon meet in a thousand shows dedicated to better American poultry and more of it, and there they will compete with their beautiful, well groomed birds, swap information, attend lectures and then return to their flocks determined to breed better birds than ever.

This all means much to the public. It puts the best poultry on their table, money in their pocket and promotes an industry that employs millions of people and adds acre to the national resources than all the wheat fields and the gold mines combined.

The associations that promote these shows have changed poultry from a mongrel chaos into systematized beautiful breeds and made it a wonder and working force for the people, and the people ought to back them.

There's New Jersey. New Jersey not only has the biggest mosquitoes on earth, but a poultry association and show in every county and some over. And think of the billions of chicken eats extra if every state was thus organized.

These associations are mostly made up of young men, and the public, the people ought to back them.

Don't think advertising is alone for the business man and not for the farmer.

The farmer who is not a business-man need not raise a wail if his farm and all he has are advertised at sheriff's sale.

Don't fail to advertise. Not every man that fails to advertise fails, but he fails to do his best in business.

Don't say fail and don't consent to be a half failure.

press, the state, should back them to the last scratch.

The public should not allow one association to want for funds to carry on such important work. The people should be glad to contribute to the premium list for such laudable competition. The people should crowd the shows, and young people especially should attend, for these exhibitions not only represent much commercially, but they are interesting, appeal to our love for the beautiful and are educational.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

The maximum penalty for shipping rotten eggs from one state to another is $200 fine and costs. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Many market capons too early to get the big price and do not have them big and fat enough. They do not really reach full size until ten or twelve months old, and an extra finished bird must have quiet, little exercise, plenty of fattening food and freedom from lice.

Philadelphia has a union to which 1,000 skilled egg candlers belong. To have a strike with such experts on high explosives would certainly be hazardous.

Some writers tell how easy it is for one man to care for 2,000 or 3,000 hens. Well, it depends on how he cares for them—on whether he covers the details of the daily round. It is easy to spin off figures here, but it is a little harder on the man on the job, and we have seen bunglers who couldn't care for 100 properly.

George W. Dill, reports a hen with twelve, the victim of a mad dog. It tried to hump the rest of the flock and threw all sorts of fits and was sent to the state college for examination.

A natural trait of ducks is to be continually on the move, and this movement gives them good digestion. Fording ducks that are shut up with little room to exercise seldom lay fertile eggs and can't keep in good health.

Hens must be kept eating good food to produce an abundance of eggs. Irregularity in feeding—a feast today and a famine tomorrow, rich food today and food low in nutritive content next—these are all reflected in the hen's product every time.

According to the American Feed association's report, it furnished $201,000,000 worth of feed to poultrymen last year and claims there is three times as much capital invested in the feed business as in steel.

A TRANSFORMED FARM.

Ten years ago Professor Cyril G. Hopkins, the soil chemist and expert of the Illinois Agricultural college, set about to find the poorest and most run down farm in twenty counties in the southern part of his state, where a majority of the farmers had been skinning their land for years. He paid $20 per acre for a 300 acre farm dubbed "Poorland Farm," which was known for counties around as the poorest and most run down agricultural proposition in the state. Those who knew the farm laughed in their sleeves when Professor Hopkins bought it, while the owner thought he had slipped a good one over on the "lead pencil" farmer. The first thing the new proprietor did was to make a chemical analysis of the soil from the different fields. He found it sadly deficient in phosphorus and more or less sour. He divided the farm into six fields of forty acres each and adopted a six year rotation of corn, oats and cowpeas, wheat and three years of meadow and pasture in timothy and clover. The soil was plowed deeply and carefully and all available straw and manure returned to the land. The past season the poorest tract of the entire farm yielded 1,320 bushels of wheat, or an average of nearly thirty-five bushels per acre. The treatment which was given this and the other forty was one ton of ground rock phosphate per acre applied the two years when the tract was in corn, while during the years of 1904 and 1905 two tons of limestone were applied to each acre, while on the tract in question two tons more of limestone per acre were applied in 1912 just before the land was plowed for wheat. The cost of two tons of limestone was $2.25 delivered at the railroad station, the raw rock phosphate cost on the average $0.75 per ton, while the cost of hauling each ton of material to the farm was 50 cents. This made the average annual cost of phosphate and limestone $1.75 per acre. To determine even more definitely the effect of the application of the minerals to the land a three acre strip along one side of this forty was given the same manure and rotation as the forty, but to one-half of it no phosphate was applied and no limestone until the fall of 1912. One and one-half acres with farm manure alone produced eleven and one-half bushels of wheat per acre. A similar tract that had received farm manure and one application of ground limestone yielded fifteen bushels per acre, while thirty-six acres of land that had been given the same manure as the smaller tracts and two applications of ground limestone and two applications of finely ground rock phosphate produced thirty-five and one-half bushels per acre. It is Professor Hopkins' judgment in view of his own experiments that all that is required to restore a run down farm is lime to sweeten it, rock phosphate to restore the supply of phosphorus exhausted, the growing of clover and alfalfa and the conservation of all straw and manure produced on the place. Owners of run down farms might with profit make careful note of the methods used in the transformation of this farm.

A NEW EGG CASE.

An Oregon inventor has tackled the proposition of devising a method of packing eggs for shipment that will reduce breakage in transit. Sheets of molded pulp board are used for this purpose, each sheet having holes evenly spaced and of such a diameter as to fit firmly over an egg a short distance from the end. When packed each egg projects slightly through two adjacent sheets, the spacing of the holes being such that no two eggs are in contact. A case of eggs packed with handmade sheets of this description was loaded over the rear axle of an express wagon, hauled rapidly over a rough plank logging road and dumped on the station platform as a package of unbreakable merchandise would be. Only one egg out of the fifty dozen which the case contained was broken, and it is claimed that this was the result of an imperfection in the handmade sheet.

COUPLE ROBBED

As They Were to Make Payment on their Home.

The savings of two years of married life, the fruits of many privations and denials, which were to be used in paying for a little home, were taken away early yesterday morning says a Los Angeles exchange, by the ruthless hand of a thief, according to the report at the police headquarters. The victims were R. R. Hankins and his wife of 425 East Fourth street. The savings amounted to $1,500, mostly in gold. The couple attribute their loss to the woman's fear of banks.

The money was in a little box hidden in a bookcase. Often the husband had cautioned his wife to place the money in a bank, but she feared a failure. No one knew the money was there, she reasoned, not even her husband's parents, with whom they lived, and it was far safer. And so each week she added a few pieces of gold to the hoard and the vision of the little home grew brighter.

Before they were married she was Maud Miller and Hankins was a car inspector on the Southern Pacific. He earned about $1,200 a year. When the girl consented to marry him, according to the story told by his parents, she made the condition that Hankins would give her a home of her own in two years, and that on the day of the wedding he should show a deed to the lot whereon the home was to stand.

So Hankins, who is thirty years old, went to work and scrimped and saved and at last bought a lot. Then Maud Miller came out from Minnesota and they were married. They rented two little rooms in the same house with the husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Hankins, and begin to save.

Each week Hankins turned over to his bride his pay, and after taking out only what was absolutely necessary to provide for them, she would put the rest in a little japanned box which she hid.

From time to time the couple took out the box and counted the gold pieces. When they had more than $1,000 they started to build on their lot on East Third street. The house was to cost about $1,000 and they had saved enough to furnish it.

Tuesday night they counted the money again, and the husband says he begged the wife once more to place the money in the bank. It meant much to them, for they had undergone many denials and privations to save it. But she would not agree, still fearing banks.

The little bookcase sits near a window. Each morning when the couple awoke Hankins looked at the bookcase to see that everything was safe. Yesterday morning he discovered that the window was open, the books were lying on the floor and the money gone.

The matter was reported at once to the police, but Detectives Beaumont and King, who were assigned to the case, have yet no clue to work upon. A reward of $300 was authorized last night by Hankins.

The building on the little home is stopped, and unless the money is recovered the house will be turned over to the builders.

Both Hankins and his wife declared that they had learned a dear lesson. They will now start to save again, but each week their savings will be recorded in a little bank book. The Savings Department of the First National Bank of Gettysburg offers you the little bank book, 3 1/2 per cent. compound interest, the protection of $250,000 capital and surplus, and over fifty years of successful banking experience. Open that account to-day—to-morrow may be too late.—advertisement.

RALPH PARLETTE TO LECTURE HERE

Humorist-Lecturer Will Give His Idea on Lecturing.

Ralph Parlette, editor of the Lyceum Magazine, humorist and widely known lecturer, has been engaged to lecture here this season. He is a genius—only a genius could write and talk as he does. He was asked his idea of lecturing and we give below what he wrote us.

Parlette's Idea of Lecturing. I used to think a lecture was a lot of words. I used to think if I could only get the words put together right, RALPH PARLETTE how to make a climax, wet or dry. I learned how to use the tremolo stop and how to split the window panes. And I made a monkey of myself.

It has taken fifteen years to begin to learn that a lecture is the overflow of a life. It is the man inside the clothes and the gestures. We need the gestures and the training, but they are the necktie. And I had a necktie and no man to hang it on!

Now I am trying to make my life luminous and big and warm and right, and something is happening. The world used to run away from me, but now it comes to see me. The world is hungry, and when my audience asked me for bread I gave it a gesture. And the audience went to sleep. Now I am trying to give my audience food, no matter if the wrapper isn't very artistic, and they come back and ask for more.

And it is a daily job to lecture. I work all the day on the typewriter, and run for trains, and grab for machine-made pie off the lunch counters make long drives and stay out of bed all night, and when I get to my town in the evening it is heavenly rest just to get on the platform and spill out the gold I am digging out each day over the audience that some hard-working committee has been struggling for weeks to get out.

I love every audience. I go to it like it was my long-lost brother. I used to hate audiences—and they hated me. The audience is just my own mirror. I smile at the audience, and it always smiles back. There's that front row of wriggling kids down in there. I love them, and pretty soon they quit wriggling and listen to me. And there's the baby that breaks its heart and fusses up its mother as I commence to lecture. I love that baby, and somehow the wireless begins to work and pretty soon the baby is sticky-eyed and mother has forgotten it all.

Then I talk a few moments and rest myself from the long day's work and travel, and bless me! just about the time I get started on my lecture, I look at my watch and I have talked too long already. So I don't give my lecture at all. I haven't given a lecture for a year. I just started to give one and the time was up; just like I used to sleep when a boy—went to bed and somebody stole the night, for the next minute it was morning and father was coming upstairs with a pitcher of water to make his last call.

But I go away from the hall all rested. I filled pretty near 300 dates last year. Polks warned me I was killing myself. I want to go on killing myself that way, for I got fatter and happier each month, resting nearly 300 times. It is great to rest in public and be paid money for it. I feel guilty every time I take money from a committee. I feel as though I ought to pay the committee for the privilege of resting before their audience.

I know my lecture stuff is good for the audience, because it is good for me. I first try it on myself.

And the big thing I have learned in these years of trying to lecture is: Keep in touch with the Power-House! There is only one subject in this world—God and Man. There is no difference between a sermon and a lecture. The Lyceum platform is my pulpit. Boil it all down into Race Improvement.

I haven't done anything yet, but I see the way. Somebody slaps me on the back and says: "I heard you at ———." "Stop!" I beg. "Don't throw it up to me! I am trying to forget it." For I am not pleased with one lecture yet, but the Big Lecture I want to give is ahead. I'll give it when my life gets big.

Dog Adopts Rabbits. Unwonted affection between animals of different species is evidenced near Gortin county, Tyrone, Ireland. A local farmer named Fleming, has a female fox terrier which was deprived of her two pups when they were four weeks old. Two weeks ago she was out hunting and came on a rabbit burrow in which were bunnies two or three days old. Three of these the dog carried carefully to her kennel, and since then she has been rearing them.

A SMART TRANSPARENT TUNIC BANDED WITH FUR

Transparencies of all sorts are modern. Wired, fur edged tunics, blouses that are merely one width of chiffon over another and touches of lace on everything. With the return to favor of the panther and the flounce, lace has come into its own again. Metal laces are especially fashionable. These are not entirely metal, but bits of the pattern are worked out in threads of gold and silver. Trimmings of mouseline and net on which odd designs in silver or gold threads are worked, etc. A bit of gold on a frock is very effective and very new.

In 7706 the tunic is of chiffon over a supple liberty satin. The edge is wired and banded with fox dyed to match. A fine wire also outlines the frill of lace at the throat, giving the slightly bouffant effect which marks so many of the season's evening gowns.

This model may be copied in size 36 with 6 1/2 yards of 36 inch material with 2 1/2 yards of contrasting material or lace.

An overblouse and an overskirt pointed on each side make 7988 distinctive. A figured silk in which there were several softly contrasting colors and a wide Roman sash add further to the gown's effectiveness.

Size 36 in this design may be made with 7 1/2 yards of 36 inch silk.

PUBLIC SHOULD BACK SHOWS. If it is true that the man who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before is a benefactor of the race we believe in placing a halo on the man who makes juicy chickens grow where none grew before and makes a cockler increase her output one hundred eggs a year. In a decade the poultry population flew from 250,024,000 to 295,880,000 and eggs increased in like ratio, and that certainly means eats for the public.

More poultry eats, cheaper poultry eats and better poultry eats for the poultry lovers of this country and a surplus to export. The American hen adds a billion dollars to our national resources annually.

High time for the public to do its hat and swing hoony for the hen and the men and women back of the hen.

The pulpit has shown its appreciation from the beginning and will continue to do so with avidity to the end of the apostolic succession, but the press is not all awake to the vast extent and importance of the great poultry industry, and the states are not all yet rooster boosters. Millions of dollars are invested in it, and millions of men and women are engaged in this advanced poultry culture that has made American poultry the finest in the world and our poultry crop the wonder of the nations. Millions of these fanciers from farm, town and city will soon meet in a thousand shows dedicated to better American poultry and more of it, and there they will compete with their beautiful, well groomed birds, swap information, attend lectures and then return to their flocks determined to breed better birds than ever.

This all means much to the public. It puts the finest poultry on their table, money in their pocket and promotes an industry that employs millions of people and adds more to the national resources than all the wheat fields and the gold mines combined.

The associations that promote these shows have changed poultry from a mongrel chaos into systematized beautiful breeds and made it a wonder and working force for the people, and the people ought to back them.

There's New Jersey. New Jersey not only has the biggest mosquitoes on earth, but a poultry association and show in every county and some over. And think of the billions of chicken eats extra if every state was thus organized.

These associations are mostly made up of young men, and the public, the press, the state, should back them to the last scratch. The public should not allow one association to want for funds to carry on such important work. The people should be glad to contribute to the premium list for such laudable competition. The people should crowd the shows, and young people especially should attend, for these exhibitions not only represent much commercially, but they are interesting, appeal to our love for the beautiful and are educational.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS. The maximum penalty for shipping rotten eggs from one state to another is $200 fine and costs. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Many market coupons too early to get the big price and do not have them big and fat enough. They do not really reach full size until ten or twelve months old, and an extra finished bird must have quiet, little exercise, plenty of fattening food and freedom from lice.

Philadelphia has a union to which 1,000 skilled egg candlers belong. To have a strike with such experts on high explosives would certainly be hazardous.

Some writers tell how easy it is for one man to care for 2,000 or 3,000 hens. Well, it depends on how he cares for them—on whether he covers the details of the daily round. It is easy to spin off figures here, but it solely depends on the man on the job, and we have seen bunglers who couldn't care for 100 properly.

Georgetown, Del., reports a hen with rabies, the victim of a mad dog. It tried to henpeck the rest of the flock and throw all sorts of fits and was sent to the state college for examination.

A natural trait of ducks is to be continually on the move, and this movement gives them good digestion. Breeding ducks that are shut up with little room to exercise seldom lay fertile eggs and can't keep in good health.

Hens must be kept eating good food to produce an abundance of eggs. Irregularity in feeding—a feast today and a famine tomorrow, rich food to-day and food low in nutritive content next—these are all reflected in the hens' product every time.

According to the American Feed Association's report, it furnished $300,000,000 worth of feed to poultrymen last year and claims there is three times as much capital invested in the feed business as in steel.

Be Pretty! Turn Gray Hair Dark

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Weyh's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

ATTRACTIVE HAIR

Always Fascinates—Parisian Sage Makes Hair That is Dark, Faded or Thin, Abundant and Gloriously Radiant.

Every girl and woman, too, wants to be beautiful and attractive—it's her birthright—but unsightly, or thin and colorless hair destroys half the beauty of the most attractive face. If your hair is not fascinating, is thinning out, full of dandruff, dry or if the scalp itches and burns, begin at once the use of Parisian Sage. It will double the beauty of the hair, cool and invigorate the scalp and the first application removes the dandruff. It is the hair tonic par excellence, containing the proper elements to supply hair needs and make the hair soft, wavy, lustrous and abundant.

Parisian Sage as sold by People's Drug Store in 50 cent bottles is pleasant and refreshing, daintily perfumed—neither greasy or sticky.

Stop Catarrh

Unless Properly Treated With Hyomei This Disease May Become Serious.

If you have a catarrh indicated by sniffling, stopped up head, droppings in the throat and morning choking, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane which affords an ideal condition for the growth of disease germs.

Do not allow these dangerous germs to begin the destruction of your health. The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by breathing Hyomei. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not upset the stomach, but is breathed in through the Hyomei inhaler, directly following and surely destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled—the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs are quickly healed and vitalized.

Money refunded by People's Drug Store to anyone whom Hyomei fails to benefit. A complete outfit costs but $1.00.

DELICATE CHILD

Mrs. L. L. Bertrand, New Iberia, La., says: "My little one was weak and run-down in health, and was continually taking cold. Different medicines failed to help, but when Vinol was recommended I found it a wonderful help to my child. It broke up the cold, and quickly restored health and strength. Vinol is a most excellent tonic for children."

If Vinol fails to do just what we say, we will give back your money. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa. P. S. For any skin trouble try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

PRESIDENT HOPES TO OGCERCHUERTA

He Plans to Halt Loans and "Starve" Dictator Out.

HANDS OFF POLICY PREVAILS

Mr. Wilson Believes Dictator's Regime Will Collapse If Foreign Aid Is Withheld.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Indications are that the American policy toward Mexico, which it is hoped the nations of the world generally will follow, still is "hands off."

The general interpretation of the situation is that the United States, by giving foreign powers detailed information of its own determination to refuse to recognize the acts of the new Mexican congress has indicated a desire that the powers generally refrain from financial dealings with the Huerta regime.

So far as can be learned, there has been no specific request for support by the powers, but there has been a plain intimation that the Washington government believes the collapse of the Huerta regime inevitable, if foreign aid be withheld.

With the intention to regard as illegal any loans or connections the new congress may undertake, there has been distinct intimation that a policy of acquiescence by foreign governments will be gratifying to Washington. Without financial aid and without the machinery of government procured illegally, officials expect to see a state of affairs that may force President Huerta to eliminate himself and show the way to a solution of the problem from the American viewpoint.

The cabinet met again with all the members present except Secretary Wilson. The Mexican topic was foremost. The raising of the embargo on arms, which has been urged upon the president and practically all the secretaries, was discussed at length.

Already the "financial starvation" plan is meeting with encouragement. France, it is asserted, has shown a favorable disposition by notifying French bankers that the Paris government will be displeased if money is furnished to the Huerta administration.

The attitude of the other great powers has not been disclosed, but it is said that the inquiries of the United States have resulted in bringing from Great Britain a denial of the report that Huerta has succeeded in obtaining from British capitalists enough money to run the Mexican government for a month.

Within the last few days President Wilson has been inclining toward lifting the embargo, and the gossip is that Bryan is seeking to show that this method of disciplining Huerta, which has been described in some quarters as barbarous, can be avoided by the negative course of preventing him from obtaining any money abroad.

Thus apparently the question of lifting the embargo on arms and ammunition for the rebels will be held in abeyance and will not be decided affirmatively unless the financial "starvation" plan fails. Then the embargo may be lifted, and if in turn it fails in the desired result, or if serious complications arise, armed intervention will be the next and final step.

President Wilson will not abandon military preparations, and will be prepared for intervention at any time, though he hopes and believes that extreme policy can be avoided.

Between now and Nov. 20, the day set for the meeting of the new Mexican congress President Wilson, it is said by an adviser, will take no decided action unless forced to do so by unexpected events in Mexico.

$10,000 IS STOLEN FROM MAIL SACK

Wife of Driver Says Husband Admitted Theft.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Thief of money and jewelry valued at $10,000 from a mail sack was disclosed by Colonel James Stuart, postoffice inspector, here.

The crime is alleged by Colonel Stuart to have been committed by Albert Tardy, a mail wagon driver. Tardy collected five sacks containing registered packages at the South Water street, Masonic Temple and the Stock Exchange sub-stations of the Chicago postoffice.

Suspicion was aroused when the wagon, containing four of the sacks, was found abandoned at the Union station. These sacks contained $1000 in money and gems which had not been disturbed.

Tardy's wife was found with some difficulty, as Tardy had given his address at a number which proved to be a vacant lot. She said Tardy visited her for a few moments, told her that he had stolen $10,000 from a mail sack, and would write to her as soon as he had escaped "across the border." He gave her a small sum of money, she said, and left, saying that he would catch the midnight train.

Colonel Stuart said that Tardy had served a term in the Missouri penitentiary for highway robbery and another at Joliet for attempting to steal a truck load of trunks.

Tardy was employed by H. C. Steger, who has a contract with the postoffice department to provide all horses and wagons needed by the department in Chicago. He is under bond.

HANG MAN BY HIS POCKETS

Highwaymen Torture Their Victim In Unusual Manner.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 12.—Two masked highwaymen held up John Rasmus, thirty-eight years old, at Dur yan, near here, and took all his money and valuables.

Because Rasmus attempted to run away after he was robbed the highwaymen tied his hands and feet securely. His empty pockets were then turned inside out and he was impaled by the pockets on the pickets of a fence.

For two hours he was left hanging. Finally his cries brought help. He was exhausted from his long exposure in the cold air.

ATTACKS WHIPPING POST

Montana Congressman Calls Delaware Punishment "Unconstitutional."

Washington, Nov. 12.—The bare back whipping of six Delaware convicts at New Castle on Nov. 8, brought a resolution from Congressman Evans of Montana, proposing that Attorney General McKeenolds bring injunction proceedings against the state of Delaware to enforce the constitutional prohibition against "cruel and inhuman punishments."

Congressman Evans expected his resolution to save the same conviction from being whipped again next Saturday, and to prevent such punishments elsewhere.

To Give Home For Y. M. C. A. Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 12.—In order that a Young Woman's Christian Association may be established here Mrs. Smith Grant is preparing to turn over her $50,000 estate, including the house in which she lives, for this purpose. Mrs. Grant, who is seventy-six years old, said that she could find a smaller house for herself.

Headless Body Washed Ashore.

Hampton Beach, N. H., Nov. 12.—The body of a young woman, with the head and hands missing, was washed ashore here. The medical referee said that death was due to drowning. The absence of the head and hands was due to the action of the water, he said, and there was no evidence of foul play.

CLEVELAND IN GRIP OF SNOW

Trains Stalled, Food Scarce and Dead Unburied.

SEVERAL FROZEN TO DEATH

Fire Loss Is $100,000 and It Is Feared Conflagration May Start — Schools Are Closed.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 12.—Cleveland is buried under twenty-one inches of snow, its streets are filled with a tangled mass of broken and twisted wires and thousands upon thousands of its inhabitants are in imminent danger of suffering from lack of food.

Three persons have been killed, ten are missing and are believed to have been frozen to death, and a great steamship is stranded on the beach, its captain and crew of twenty-two sailors waiting for the death that may come at any moment because of the mountainous seas rolling in from Lake Erie. It is still snowing, and unless the storm, which has continued since last Sunday, soon abates, no one can tell what the ultimate toll in dollars and lives may be.

The loss is already estimated at $2,000,000, half of which will fall upon the telephone and telegraph companies. Normal conditions cannot be restored within a week, and if a thaw should come, followed by the inevitable flood, the whole lake country will suffer severely.

Conditions have been growing worse since Monday night, when half of the city was plunged into darkness, the lighting plant being blown down by the gale. At least one-half of the street car service is out of commission, and no less than 3000 trunks, telegraph and telephone poles within the city limits have been blown down.

So complete was the paralysis of transportation facilities it was deemed best to let the dead lie in the places where they had died, and no funerals will be held until the storm is over. There has been no delivery of groceries, bread, milk or coal since Saturday, and the suffering in consequence cannot be definitely learned, but it is widespread. There is a sufficient supply of gas, and it is being used unsparingly in places fitted for it, that as many persons as possible may be benefited.

One of the greatest fears is from fire. Already one fire has done $100,000 damage, and the difficulties encountered in suppressing it were such as to cause the authorities the greatest apprehension should another fire break out. Every possible precaution is being taken by the exhausted firemen and policemen.

All the schools of the city are closed. The danger attendant upon the passing of children through the streets and the unusual conditions surrounding them in the school houses, many of which have been thrown open to the homeless, prompted the authorities to suspend classes until the blizzard has abated.

The food shortage, felt Monday afternoon, has become more pronounced and threatening. There is no milk to be had at any price except it be obtained in the name of suffering babies, and other foodstuffs are rapidly going to a premium where it is possible to find them. Many families were caught with little more than the food supply required to carry them over Sunday, and as there have been no shipments received since Saturday, the supply is rapidly being exhausted.

DIG TRAINS OUT OF SNOW

Hundreds of Passengers Were Stalled and Many Suffered Severely.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 12.—Although western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia still are buried under a blanket of a foot or more of snow, conditions are rapidly improving.

Telephone and telegraph companies have made progress in restoring communication and railroads have dug out trains that had been buried for hours in the largest drifts known in the Pittsburgh section for a long period of years.

One train arrived in Pittsburgh from Cleveland, after having been on the way a little more than thirty hours. It was stalled in a drift for twenty-eight hours not far from Cleveland, and the passengers suffered severely from the cold and hunger.

Hundreds of passengers were on trains stalled or derailed. A farm house in Washington county had ninety-five passengers, one of them Senator A. B. Cummins, of Iowa, who had been visiting his father in Carmichael.

In Pittsburgh and environs there is much suffering in the tenement districts. The Salvation Army, Associated Charities and other charity organizations are working overtime supplying clothing, fuel and food.

More than twenty inches of snow has fallen at Grafton, W. Va., since Sunday night. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad is digging out one of the worst blockades it has known in a dozen years, and trains are from eight to twelve hours late.

DAMAGED MAPLES

Cut them Off Close to Ground in the Blue Ridge Section.

Vandals are again busy plying their trade in the Blue Ridge section northeast of Waynesboro, and on Sunday night cut down 500 maple trees on the Mentzer Gap road between Hopewell Mills and the Cross Roads. Trees which had been planted on both sides of the road by Roadmaster J. N. Sprengle, about a year ago, were thriving and promised to make a magnificent shaded avenue after a time. The trees were chopped off close to the ground. There is no clue to the fellows who are guilty.

NO SIGNALS FROM MARS.

Professor Lowell Says We Shall Know More About Planet Soon.

Professor Percival Lowell, the Boston astronomer, is not in accord with the statement of Leonotte, the Swiss scientist, that there is a series of luminous apparitions taking place on the planet Mars, like flashes of electric lights, all turned on at the same time, which causes him to believe the Martians are trying to signal us. Professor Lowell attributes these sudden changes on the surface of the planet to peculiar atmospheric changes.

"It is not time yet for the Martians to signal us," he says. "Wait a little. We shall know more about Mars and its inhabitants in the near future."

"I do not believe that the inhabitants of Mars are signaling to us. This is hardly the time for stimulation. What is seen there may be the snow on the peaks, and with the alkali there existing the peculiar colors discernible by Leonotte may be traceable to this."

"However, do not be too confident about this signaling business. There is more in Mars than we can imagine, and as time goes on greater revelations will be made."

If there were not a cent or profit to be realized from the keeping of a flock of sheep—that is, if they simply paid their way—it would be well worth while for the average farmer to keep a few of them simply to consume the noxious weeds that befall the pastures and fence corners. The writer has in mind a large pasture which two years ago, when it was grazed by a hundred or more sheep, was as close clipped and clean as if it had been cut with a lawn mower. This season, with no sheep in it, it is grown up with a great variety of weeds which cattle will not touch and which take just so much moisture and fertility from the soil.—advertisement

REPUBLICANS PLAN REORGANIZATION

Sub-Committee Discusses Convention, Representation.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Plans for reorganizing the Republican party were discussed here by the law committee of the Republican national committee. Proposals for changing the number of delegates and representation basis in the national convention along lines put forward by the Progressive element of the party were taken up.

The discussion indicated individual opinions that the national committee had not the power of itself to change the basis of representation, but that it could call an intermediate convention to make that and other changes. The sub-committee recommendations will be considered by the national committee on Dec. 15.

Those present were: Charles B. Warren, Michigan; Representative Mann, Illinois; Roy West, Illinois; James A. Fowler, Tennessee; Sherman Granger, Ohio, and Marshall Bullitt, Kentucky.

Senator Jones of Washington, sent his proxy, James B. Reynolds, secretary of the national committee, was present.

GEN. BIDDLE TO RETIRE

Head of Marine Corps Applies For Voluntary Retirement.

Washington, Nov. 12.—After thirty-eight years of service, Major General William P. Biddle, commandant of the Marine Corps, has applied for voluntary retirement under the thirty years' service law.

Major General Biddle has been the commandant of the Marine Corps since Feb. 3, 1911. He would not have been retired for age until Dec. 17, 1917.

Major General Biddle commanded the marines on Admiral Dewey's flagship during the battle of Manila Bay, and in the Boxer uprising in China he commanded the first regiment of marines during the march from Tientsin to Peking for the relief of the foreign legations. He commanded the marines in the battle of Yang-Tsun and in the fighting in the vicinity of Peking.

For some days reports have been current that an extra session would be called, but Governor Tener said that he had no such intention.

"There would have been no necessity for an extra session if the loan had carried, and there is none now," was the governor's statement in regard to the reports.

FEAR MANY DIED IN LAKE STORM

Big Freighter, Carrying Crew of Forty, Lost.

LIGHTSHIP ALSO WRECKED

A Dozen or More Steamers on Great Lakes Are Ashore and Several Are Missing.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12.—It is believed many lives have been lost in the terrific gales which have swept the Great Lakes since last Saturday night.

A dozen or more staunch freighters have been driven ashore, one steamer capsized and scores of other craft have been driven to shelter in widely scattered harbors.

Probably the worst disaster is the loss of an unidentified freighter found bottom up in Lake Huron, eight miles out from Port Huron.

The ship apparently was a 600-foot steel freighter. There is no trace of the crew, which must have numbered about forty, and vessels expressed the belief that all hands perished in the wreck.

It was difficult to ascertain when the disaster occurred and where it took place. The overturned vessel probably drifted several miles.

Captain Plough, in charge of the life saving station, left with his crew for the scene of the wreck. Searching parties were also organized to patrol the shore. Reports indicate a shifting of cargo may have been responsible for the accident.

Among the latest missing boats to be reported is the J. M. Jerks, of the W. A. and A. P. Hawgood company, of Cleveland. She left the Soo Saturday in company with four other steamers all of which have been heard from.

Lightship No. 52, carrying a crew of six men, stationed in Lake Erie off Point Abino, fifteen miles west of Buffalo, is reported lost by incoming vessels.

Wreckage of the lightship floated into Buffalo harbor. The float consisted of a boat railing, two or three doors, and several life preservers, all marked "United States L. V. 52."

A lifeboat from the lightship was found floating bottom up off the Buffalo Breakwater. A broken ear was fast in its earlock. A heavy overcoat and the cabin door of the vessel were also washed ashore. The tender Crocus and several tugs have returned to Buffalo without finding any trace of the missing ship.

An unidentified steamer lies pounded on the rocks off Manitow Island, at the tip of Keweenaw Point, Lake Superior, and the fate of her crew could not be learned, despite heroic efforts of life savers to reach her.

Two steamers are aground at Isle Royal and Copper Harbor, Lake Superior, and it is not known if their crews have escaped.

The passenger steamer Huronic is ashore in Whitefish Bay, Lake Superior, but is resting easily. The Canadian-owned freighter Acadia, with captain and crew on board, lies on a reef off Alpena, Thunder Bay, Lake Huron. A Tomlinson line vessel, her decks awash, is on the bottom of Gros Cap Point, Lake Superior. Her crew was on board, fighting desperately for their lives.

NECKLACE FOR MISS WILSON

House Decides on Jeweled Ornament as Wedding Gift.

Washington, Nov. 12.—A jeweled necklace, with a diamond pendant costing about $2000, will be the wedding present from the members of the house to Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the president.

The committee named to make a selection of which Speaker Clark is the chairman, held a meeting. Representative James R. Mann, of Illinois, Republican floor leader, who first suggested that the house give Miss Wilson a present, was on hand.

With the help of Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, the committee spent several hours carefully studying designs of various articles from "kettles to diamonds," according to Mr. Mann.

Ship Had Too Few Lifeboats: Fined

Washington, Nov. 12.—The maximum fine of $1000 for providing insufficient life saving apparatus was imposed by Assistant Secretary of Commerce Sweet upon the owners of the steamship Montevideo, which plies between San Juan, Porto Rico, and Spain. He found that the vessel carried 765 passengers and provided life boats for only 742.

PRICE OF EGGS SOARS

Selling at 55 Cents a Dozen in Philadelphia and $1 Is Predicted.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—If you are eating strictly fresh eggs for breakfast these mornings, it might be just as well to keep the income tax collector from getting wise to the fact.

With the snowy spheroids now selling at 53 to 55 cents a dozen and still headed toward the clouds, it might make a difference in his estimation of your wealth.

As a matter of fact, 55 cents is regarded by practically all the dealers as a very temporary halting place. Most of them confidently expect that the price will be 75 cents a dozen by Christmas and some predict that $1 a dozen will be asked.

High Price of Eggs Blamed on Corner.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 12.—The speculators and gamblers in eggs in Pennsylvania can make the price of eggs drop 10 per cent in twenty-four hours if they will release the millions of dozens of eggs they have in storage in this state, and it would be the part of wisdom for them to do so," said James Foster, dairy and food commissioner. "Ninety per cent of the eggs in storage are April eggs, and the time limit on them is up on Dec. 1. I propose to declare every egg stored beyond the eight months' limit outlawed. Outlawed eggs cannot be sold. The price of eggs can be brought down good and hard if they are put out."

FUSION IS SOUGHT TO OUST PENROSE

Washington and Democratic Leaders to Confer.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—The question of fusion with the Democrats on candidates for United States senator and governor will be talked over shortly by representative Progressives from the eastern section of Pennsylvania.

Washington party leaders shrug their shoulders when the feasibility of the proposed state-wide get-together movement is broached, and Democratic leaders, up to this time, are non-committal.

Fusion on a successor to Senator Penrose and Governor Tener, Democrats and Progressives concede is a very difficult problem.

The United States senatorship is regarded as the principal stumbling block in the way of fusion next year. Democrats and Washington party men are equally desirous of choosing Senator Penrose's successor. The Democratic party is in the saddle at Washington and can ill afford to lose a senator. Besides, Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic leader of Pennsylvania, has his eye on Senator Penrose's place.

Former State Senator Flinn, of Pittsburgh, according to report, will not agree to Washington-Democratic fusion that does not recognize his candidature against Senator Penrose, J. Denny O'Neill, a Pittsburgh county commissioner.

Finn holds the purse strings, can command the support of Washington party leaders with few exceptions, and his dislike of Senator Penrose is a match for anything in that line that Colonel Roosevelt has shown.

The Democratic tariff policy is, more than any one thing, perhaps, the barrier which makes fusion on a Democrat for United States senator improbable, if not out of the question.

Fifteen-Year Term For Slayer.

Mount Holly, N. J., Nov. 12.—When Thomas Baker was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Voorhees to answer to an indictment charging him with the murder of his stepfather, Hudson Weber, of Borton's Landing, the prisoner withdrew his former plea of not guilty and entered one of non vult contendere. The court sentenced Baker to hard labor in the state prison for not less than fifteen years and not more than thirty years.

Burglar Feels Woman: Gets Cash.

Mount Carmel, Pa., Nov. 12.—Responding to a timid knock at the front door, after coming in from church, where she is organist, Mrs. John Cezha was telled by a club in the hands of an unknown man. While the woman lay unconscious the intruder ransacked the house and escaped with money and jewelry.

REPUBLICANS PLAN REORGANIZATION

Sub-Committee Discusses Con- vention Representation.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Plans for re-organizing the Republican party were discussed here by the law committee of the Republican national committee. Proposals for changing the number of delegates and representation basis in the national convention along lines put forward by the Progressive element of the party were taken up.

The discussion indicated individual opinions that the national committee had not the power of itself to change the basis of representation, but that it could call an intermediate convention to make that and other changes. The sub-committee recommendations will be considered by the national committee on Dec. 15.

Those present were: Charles B. Warren, Michigan; Representative Mann, Illinois; Roy West, Illinois; James A. Fowler, Tennessee; Sherman Granger, Ohio, and Marshall Bullitt, Kentucky.

Senator Jones, of Washington, sent his proxy. James B. Reynolds, secretary of the national committee, was present.

GEN. BIDDLE TO RETIRE

Head of Marine Corps Applies For Voluntary Retirement.

Washington, Nov. 12.—After thirty-eight years of service, Major General William P. Biddle, commandant of the Marine Corps, has applied for voluntary retirement under the thirty years' service law.

Major General Biddle has been the commandant of the Marine Corps since Feb. 3, 1911. He would not have been retired for age until Dec. 17, 1917.

Major General Biddle commanded the marines on Admiral Dewey's flagship during the battle of Manila Bay, and in the Boxer uprising in China he commanded the first regiment of marines during the march from Tien-Tsin to Peking for the relief of the foreign legations. He commanded the marines in the battle of Yang-Tsun and in the fighting in the vicinity of Peking.

"NO EXTRA SESSION"—TENER

Governor Refuses to Reconvene Legislature For Action on Road Loan.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 12.—No extra session of the legislature will be called as a result of the defeat of the $50,000,000 good roads loan.

For some days reports have been current that an extra session would be called, but Governor Tener said that he had no such intention.

"There would have been no necessity for an extra session if the loan had carried, and there is none now," was the governor's statement in regard to the reports.

FEAR MANY DIED IN LAKE STORM

Big Freighter, Carrying Crew of Forty, Lost.

LIGHTSHIP ALSO WRECKED

A Dozen or More Steamers on Great Lakes Are Ashore and Several Are Missing.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12.—It is believed many lives have been lost in the terrific gales which have swept the Great Lakes since last Saturday night.

A dozen or more staunch freighters have been driven ashore, one steamer capsized and scores of other craft have been driven to shelter in widely scattered harbors.

Probably the worst disaster is the loss of an unidentified freighter found bottom up in Lake Huron, eight miles out from Port Huron.

The ship apparently was a 600-foot steel freighter. There is no trace of the crew, which must have numbered about forty, and vesselmen expressed the belief that all hands perished in the wreck.

It was difficult to ascertain when the disaster occurred and where it took place. The overturned vessel probably drifted several miles.

Captain Plough, in charge of the life saving station, left with his crew for the scene of the wreck. Searching parties were also organized to patrol the shore. Reports indicate a shifting of cargo may have been responsible for the accident.

Among the latest missing boats to be reported is the J. M. Jenks, of the W. A. and A. P. Hawgood company, of Cleveland. She left the Soo Saturday in company with four other steamers, all of which have been heard from.

Lightship No. 82, carrying a crew of six men, stationed in Lake Erie off Point Abino, fifteen miles west of Buffalo, is reported lost by incoming vessels.

Wreckage of the lightship floated into Buffalo harbor. The boatsman consisted of a boat railing, two or three doors, and several life preservers, all marked "United States L. V. 82."

A lifeboat from the lightship was found floating bottom up off the Buffalo Breakwater. A broken oar was fast in its earlock. A heavy overcoat and the cabin door of the vessel were also washed ashore. The tender Crocus and several tugs have returned to Buffalo without finding any trace of the missing ship.

An unidentified steamer lies pounded on the rocks off Manitou Island, at the tip of Keweenaw Point, Lake Superior, and the fate of her crew could not be learned, despite heroic efforts of life savers to reach her.

Two steamers are aground at Isle Royal and Copper Harbor, Lake Superior, and it is not known if their crews have escaped.

The passenger steamer Huronic is ashore in Whitefish Bay, Lake Superior, but is resting easily. The Canadian-owned freighter Acadia, with captain and crew on board, lies on a reef off Alpena, Thunder Bay, Lake Huron. A Tomlinson line vessel, her decks awash, is on the bottom of Gros Cap Point, Lake Superior. Her crew was on board, fighting desperately for their lives.

NECKLACE FOR MISS WILSON

House Decides on Jeweled Ornament as Wedding Gift.

Washington, Nov. 12.—A jeweled necklace, with a diamond pendant costing about $2000, will be the wedding present from the members of the house to Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the president.

The committee named to make a selection, of which Speaker Clark is the chairman, held a meeting. Representatives James R. Mann, of Illinois, Republican floor leader, who first suggested that the house give Miss Wilson a present, was on hand.

With the help of Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, the committee spent several hours carefully studying designs of various articles from "kettles to diamonds," according to Mr. Mann.

Ship Had Too Few Lifeboats: Fined

Washington, Nov. 12.—The maximum fine of $1000 for providing insufficient life saving apparatus was imposed by Assistant Secretary of Commerce Sweet upon the owners of the steamship Montevideo, which plies between San Juan, Porto Rico, and Spain. He found that the vessel carried 758 passengers and provided life boats for only 702.

Puts Kerosene on Fire: Killed.

Grafton, W. Va., Nov. 12.—Mrs. John Patey was killed and her husband, a rich Italian merchant of Berryburg, near here, was fatally injured by an explosion which blew their house to pieces when Mrs. Patey attempted to kindle a fire with a mixture of kerosene and gasoline.

PRICE OF EGGS SOARS

Selling at 55 Cents a Dozen in Philadelphia and $1 Is Predicted.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—If you are eating strictly fresh eggs for breakfast these mornings, it might be just as well to keep the income tax collector from getting wise to the fact.

With the snowy spheroids now selling at 53 to 55 cents a dozen and still headed toward the clouds, it might make a difference in his estimation of your wealth.

As a matter of fact, 55 cents is regarded by practically all the dealers as a very temporary halting place. Most of them confidently expect that the price will be 75 cents a dozen by Christmas and some predict that $1 a dozen will be asked.

High Price of Eggs Blamed on Corner.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 12.—"The speculators and gamblers in eggs in Pennsylvania can make the price of eggs drop 10 per cent in twenty-four hours if they will release the millions of dozens of eggs they have in storage in this state, and it would be the part of wisdom for them to do so," said James Post, dairy and food commissioner.

"Ninety per cent of the eggs in storage are April eggs, and the time limit on them is up on Dec. 1. I propose to declare every egg stored beyond the eight months' limit outlawed. Outlawed eggs cannot be sold. The price of eggs can be brought down good and hard if they are put out."

FUSION IS SOUGHT TO OUST PENROSE

Washington and Democratic Leaders to Confer.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—The question of fusion with the Democrats on candidates for United States senator and governor will be talked over shortly by representative Progressives from the eastern section of Pennsylvania.

Washington party leaders shrug their shoulders when the feasibility of the proposed state-wide-get-together movement is broached, and Democratic leaders, up to this time, are non-committal.

Fusion on a successor to Senator Penrose and Governor Tener, Democrats and Progressives concede is a very difficult problem.

The United States senatorship is regarded as the principal stumbling block in the way of fusion next year. Democrats and Washington party men are equally desirous of choosing Senator Penrose's successor. The Democratic party is in the saddle at Washington and can ill afford to lose a senator. Besides, Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic leader of Pennsylvania, has his eye on Senator Penrose's place.

Former State Senator Flinn, of Pittsburgh, according to report, will not agree to Washington-Democratic fusion that does not recognize his candidate against Senator Penrose, J. Denny O'Neill, a Pittsburgh county commissioner.

Flinn holds the purse strings, can command the support of Washington party leaders with few exceptions, and his dislike of Senator Penrose is a match for anything in that line that Colonel Roosevelt has shown.

The Democratic tariff policy is, more than any one thing, perhaps, the barrier which makes fusion on a Democrat for United States senator improbable, if not out of the question.

Fifteen-Year Term For Slayer.

Mount Holly, N. J., Nov. 12.—When Thomas Baker was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Voorhees to answer to an indictment charging him with the murder of his stepfather, Hudson Weber, of Borton's Landing, the prisoner withdrew his former plea of not guilty and entered one of non-voluntariness. The court sentenced Baker to hard labor in the state prison for not less than fifteen years and not more than thirty years.

Burglar Fells Woman; Gets Cash.

Mount Carmel, Pa., Nov. 12.—Responding to a timid knock at the front door, after coming in from church, where she is organist, Mrs. John Cezha was felled by a club in the hands of an unknown man. While the woman lay unconscious the intruder ransacked the house and escaped with money and jewelry.

DYNAMITE CASES HEARD ON APPEAL

Plea Made For Thirty Union
Labor Officials.

OUT UNDER HEAVY BONDS.

Defendants Ask That Verdicts Rendered in Indianapolis Last December Be Set Aside—Appeal Revives Story of Nation Wide Plot Which Culminated Fatally in Los Angeles.

Another chapter in the nation wide story of the dynamite plots which extended throughout the country and culminated in the fatal explosion in Los Angeles in 1910 was begun when the case of thirty of the convicted men was called before the United States circuit court of appeals in Chicago a few days ago.

Thirty of the thirty-three labor union officials who were indicted equally guilty with the McNamara brothers in promoting explosions asked that the verdicts be set aside and that they be given a new trial. Opposed to them, the federal government asked that the convicted men be sent back to prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to serve out their terms. A sentence of seven years, the heaviest penalty of all, hangs over Frank M. Ryan, who is out on a $70,000 bond pending this appeal. He was given the longest term, Judge A. B. Anderson at Indianapolis said, because he was president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, one of whose funds the expenses of the dynamiters were paid.

Seven Get Six Years Each.
Six years imprisonment is the penalty which a United States District Court at San Francisco and each of six others set to be set aside. Evidence is a labor leader prominent on the Pacific coast and the six other men were given the second longest terms because they were found guilty of voting to appropriate the union's funds for dynamiting a section work or actually aiding John J. and James B. McNamara in explosions on the Pacific coast.

The other seven men were given the longest terms, most of which have been suspended pending the appeal, very from four years to one year and one day. Three days of the present court were devoted to the hearing of the appeals and the government's opposition.

When the argument was concluded, Judges Robinson, Baker and Seaman took the position under advisement and will render their decision later. It is understood that should the present appeal be adverse to the convicted men it will be referred to the United States supreme court.

Basis of the Appeal.
The basis of the appeal as submitted to the court by Chester B. Krum, St. Louis and Elijah N. Zollner of Chicago, the counsel, was:

That under the federal statutes there is no such crime as the conspiracy to commit a crime, but that the conspiracy to commit a crime is a crime under the common law.

RIBBON FLOWERS ARE DAINTIEST OF GIFTS

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.
Exquisite ribbon roses, corsage bouquets of ribbon violets and nosegays of small ribbon or silk buds—all scented—are among the Christmas offerings for this year that hardly cost more than the time it takes to make them. This item of cost is an important one to most of us. There are so many that we wish to remember, at the holiday season, that even modest gifts mount up into a total which it is unfair to ourselves for us to spend. The one way out is to make up things in which the ideas and work make value. Our friends appreciate these more than any other sort of gift.

To make the little buttonhole bouquets shown here, requires a bolt of light purple or dark lavender velvet ribbon, a spool of green covered wire called "tie-wire" and one small branch of millinery foliage. For this purpose the velvet maiden-hair fern is the best choice.

Strips of ribbon or silk in bright colors—pink, rose, yellow or white or other colors if desired—make up the small roses. A narrow fold four to six inches long is rolled into the semblance of a bud. The tie-wire is wound about this roll at one end to form the stem. As this wire is as fine as a coarse thread it should be doubled to make the rosebush stems.

The violets are made either of velvet baby ribbon or No. 2 silk ribbon. Little bows of four loops, each three-quarters of an inch deep, are worn at the middle with the tie-wire, which holds the loops to place and forms the stem. After the roses and violets have been made, group them together in a little bouquet and tie the stems with a bit of tie-wire. Place a spray of the maiden-hair fern with them, wrap with tin-foil, which may be had at the florists, and tie with a plain bow of the baby ribbon. Purple tin-foil should be used. To make a large bunch of violets a wider ribbon (about a half inch wide) should be used. The violets are made in the manner first described. A single dark red rosebud of ribbon or silk is mounted with them and a few millinery leaves of rose foliage. There are usually plenty of these among one's discarded millinery flowers. If they are crumpled they may be pressed lightly with an iron—not hot, but just warm.

The ribbon rose is more difficult to make, but most beautiful for a corsage ornament. It requires from one to one and a quarter yards of rather heavy satin ribbon, about two inches wide. The petals are made by cutting the ribbon in lengths of two and a half inches. A tiny covered wire is tucked in with invisible stitches along the sides and upper edge of the petals and these petals curled back over a helper. The lower edge is folded to shape the petal and sewed to place. A heavy wire forms the stem. Fasten at one end of this a small pad of cotton the size of a marble and cover it with a bit of silk. Wind the upper stem with thread. Next wrap a bit of ribbon tightly about this center and then place the petals, winding with thread and tacking with stitches to the stem. When the rose is finished fasten it to the stem with green and green, or white wire stem with green baby ribbon, if a millinery stem is not used.

FALL BEATS 'EM ALL.
"The melancholy days are here"—That's what some poet said. Of fall, when frost sits in the air, And autumn leaves are shed.

But, say, that poet had a grouch. For I don't see no reason. For growing when the fall comes round. By Jinks, it's just the season.

Why, then, comes other folk's time? It's surely a design. To run a straw down in a bar? And suck with all your might.

And sashes and buttons, too. And scrumptious buttermilk. Just tell me, better time of year. Kin beat the fall for sure.

And there is rather punkin pie. Oh, my, it beats the land. It takes the good old frosty fall To bring that pie so grand.

But, say, Marier's cabin me. What has she got for dinner? By gum, I smell fresh sauerkraut As sure as I'm a sinner!

I haven't time to finish this. For I must go and eat. But, say, what grows in other months That's got old style kraut beat?

KURIOS FROM KORRESPONDENTS.
Q. What is the cause of bloody eggs and the curd? A. The cause is often overfat, the fat hen straining to lay ruptures a small blood vessel in oviduct, or it may be caused by some derangement of the egg organs. The trouble is often temporary. If from overfat can be cured by less feed and more exercise; otherwise use the ax.

Q. I have a dozen hens here that stagger and fall around, as if drunk. They have not been drinking, I'm sure. What is their trouble anyhow? A. We rather think it is worms, as this is a symptom, unless you are feeding rank beef scrap. Let four hens get real hungry; then feed a mash fragrant with turpentine and watch the drooping heads.

Q. I have a friend who buries the grain in spaded ground and claims that is better than throwing it into litter for fowls to scratch out. What's your opinion? A. If you watch the ground where he throws the grain you will soon see it covered with sprouts, which shows it's a wasteful method.

Q. How long do you leave chicks with the hen? A. Till she begins to neglect them.

Q. Which do you consider the best breed for a city back yard hen? A. We would select Barred Rocks, Reds or White Dories for our choice. These are self feeders and do well on a small space.

Q. How long is a chicken a chick? A. Until its sex can be distinguished, when it is a cockerel or pullet. At one year of age it is called cock or hen, as the case may be.

The C. O. D. feature added to the parcel post is a big convenience to those who ship eggs to private trade by special carton, as personal collection made such shipping too expensive. RUNK & PECKMAN'S REALTY REPORT

Now, is the best time in the year to make quick sales. If you have a farm, town, property or business, which you are anxious to sell, don't delay coming to see us. Buyers are about through "looking around" and are ready to do business. Ask just what your property is worth, that is, be willing to sell for what you would be willing to pay, were you buying instead of selling and you will be surprised how quickly we will sell for you.

Don't list your property with an unselective agent. We do not advertise for fun or to see our name in print, but to get in touch with prospective buyers who read our advertisements each week. We have a large number of good prospective buyers, whom we have been unable to suit in location and price. Let us know what you have to sell. Your property may be just what one of these buyers want. If so, you will make a quick sale.

FARMS

Although farm sales have been hurt somewhat this fall, by reason of certain agents running over the county, persuading farm owners to list with them by telling them that they had sure buyers for their properties at big prices, yet we have not been quite idle. We have sold farms this fall for a number of owners:—A 101 acre farm for Norman Miller in the Hanover Road to Geo. W. Waltman who resides nearby and is not afraid of values going down. A small farm at Goldenville Station for Jake Group to Rev. Floto of Biglerville. Another small farm near Bonneauville for S. Laughman to Levi Folk, who is also adding to his land holdings. A fine large farm on the Fairfield road for Eliza B. Stull to M. L. Metcalf of Franklin County who will move here in the spring. A fine large farm near Cashtown for Rob't D. D. to David J. Brown who has decided to quit renting and live on his own farm for a change. The William Deardorf farm of 165 acres 1 mile east of town to Bishop J. L. Brindle of Franklin County who will improve and reside there in the spring. The same day we sold the John L. Eckert farm which we had listed for some time to Geo. L. Bear of Franklin County who will do some improving and eventually move here. We also sold for Lester E. Bowers a small farm 1 mile east of Gettysburg to Howard Bream who will quit farming and move in his new home in the spring. A 15 acre home west of Gettysburg for Oliver Currens to Frank Leore. An 88 acre farm for Dr. L. A. Beth to Jake Group, of Biglerville. A 70 acre farm for Mary J. Rowe of Knox to C. C. Bream of Abbottstown. A 60 acre farm for Mrs. Matilda Barr of Guernsey. A number of other sales have been made by us which the owners have asked us not to advertise until later.

The owner of a fine farm about 1 mile from Biglerville has just listed it with us for quick sale. He gave us the following description: 118 acres—12 acres of which is oak and hickory timber, 5 acres pasture and balance cultivated, land level and very slightly rolling, red soil, 25 bearing apple trees and other fruit, log weatherboarded house, out kitchen, wash house, fine bank barn 50 x 80 feet, wagon shed 40 x 20, hog pen, chicken house and other buildings, public road, crops average well. Owner wants to sell because he is getting up in years and has no help. Price $6000. If you don't have time to call, phone about this one.

If you want a cheap stock and fruit farm we have 124 acres in Liberty Township, stone house, bank barn and other buildings, water system, buildings practically new, very rolling, granite soil, cut 65 tons hay this year. The price is $4500 to first buyer—there is 18 acres of timber on this farm. Learn more about this one. If you don't want to move there we have a good renter for you who will farm the place.

Also farms in all parts of the county—better see us about them now before they are gone. We'll treat you right whether you buy or not.

TRAPPERS & FARMERS ATTENTION!

The time of year is here for fur bearing skins! I have many satisfied friends who have sold me furs in former years, who will come again this year. But I want You Men that I Have Not Dealt With Before to bring me your catches and learn that I will pay you the highest cash price the market affords. Don't let city printed circulars quoting high prices fool you. When you receive your money for a city shipment it is usually less than you expect, when you deal with me you know what you are getting and you get it CASH without waiting. If you don't often get to town write or telephone to me. No! too small for me to buy.
